No.19

Week ending
Saturday the 29th of April, 2006.

Anne McCaffrey.

is a perennial favourite among those who love fantasy and science fiction. We've a variety of her novels in our angled window this week. Titles include Freedom's Landing, Get Off the Unicorn, Killashandra, Pegasus in Flight, Pegasus in Space, Restoree, Ride to Pegasus and The Rowan.

Autumn Leaves.

Last week, we had an autumn theme, complete with giant walnuts in the window, dried leaves, a painting by Mike of a tree losing its leaves and books with an autumn theme. So large were the walnuts (which Cheryl purchased from the Farmers' Market) that people kept asking: "Where did you find such big nuts?"

Local Histories, Local Stories.

We've a copy of Sam's Grief: a True Gold Rush Story by Gavin McLean, published 1989 by Otago Heritage Books and Wanaka Story: a History of the Wanaka, Hawea, Tarras and Surrounding Districts, by Irvine Roxburgh which was one of the Otago Centennial Historical Publications published in 1957.

A tidy copy.

A Legendary Bookshop.

"Read On!" is rapidly living up to its reputation of being a legendary bookshop (at least we think so!) and so what could be more fitting this week than a window devoted to myths and legends. We've got myths and legends from the ancient world and the New Zealand Maori. Titles include J.C. Frazier's The Golden Bough and James Thurber's Further Fables for Our Time, to Abduction: Over 200 Documented UFO Kidnappings Exhaustively Investigated, by Jenny Randles and Trawler Sunk By Flying Cow: the Ultimate Book of Tall Stories by Yorick Brown and Mike Flynn.
